Maria Lawton inducted into the Taste Awards Hall of Fame

I'm truly honored to be inducted into the Taste Awards Hall of Fame. Sharing my Portuguese culture has always been a passion of mine, and this recognition means the world to me.”

Maria Lawton

The Taste Awards recognize excellence in food, lifestyle, and travel programs across television, film, online media, radio, and podcasts. Maria Lawton, affectionately known as the "Azorean Greenbean," has previously won two Taste Award medals for her acclaimed PBS series, Maria’s Portuguese Table. The first was the Spotlight Award, recognizing her exceptional storytelling, and the second honored her for Best Travel Program on TV.

Maria’s Portuguese Table is groundbreaking as the first-ever U.S. television series dedicated to showcasing Portuguese culture. Through vibrant storytelling, culinary exploration, and heartfelt personal connections, Lawton brings the richness of Portuguese heritage to audiences nationwide. Her work is a true love letter to her culture, highlighting the traditions, flavors, and communities that make it so special.

Following the success of her second cookbook, At My Portuguese Table, Lawton remains deeply engaged in her passion for sharing Portuguese cuisine and culture. She is currently immersed in writing multiple new books and looks forward to sharing them with her audience in the near future. As for Maria's Portuguese Table Season Three, Lawton remains confident in its future, leaving audiences eagerly awaiting what's next.
