This retrospective gives a glimpse into my creative arc over the past 15 years. Bold experimentation with color, texture, style and materials has yielded an extensive body of work inspired by water.”

Jill Krutick

Krutick's love for nature, the environment, and the interplay of color, shapes, and texture is evident in her artwork. Her pieces are a reflection of her personal journey and her passion for preserving the beauty of the natural world. Through her art, she hopes to inspire others to appreciate and protect the environment.

The retrospective will feature works from her Ice Cube, Shangri La, Coral Reef, Dreamscape, Geometric, Works on Paper and Abstract Landscape Series. Each series explores different parts of Krutick's artistic journey from the regimented to the imaginary. Krutick uses bold colors, texture and mixed media to tell stories and share a journey through her artistic vision of the world around her.

Krutick's artwork has been exhibited in galleries and museums across the country, and her upcoming solo show at Art Gotham Gallery is highly anticipated by art enthusiasts and collectors. About Jill Krutick

Jill Krutick's paintings present a 21st Century iteration of Abstract Expressionism. She has been a full-time artist since 2010. Her work has been displayed at six museums on two continents, including four solo shows in the past six years. In 2023, Krutick installed an 85-foot-long site-specific mixed media artwork called Coral Beliefs at Pyramid Hill Sculpture Park & Museum in Hamilton, Ohio. Her most recent group show was at Le Grand Palais in Paris for the Salon Comparaisons, 2025.

Krutick is a most unusual, even radical, artist in that she is equally analytical and creative. She was a media executive and a top-ranked equity analyst on Wall Street. Prior to leaving the corporate world and committing to her art practice full time, she was Fortune Magazine's #1 Entertainment Analyst in 2001.

The energy and talent that created success in the business world have refocused on art that is both rhapsodic and conversational, expressing her passion for the environment. Krutick paints in her Westchester, New York studio with her Old English Sheepdogs.
