and comfort for pets and their owners through real estate. Known widely as the "Realtor Who Loves Pets," Soares skillfully merges her passion for animal rescue with expert real estate advice, ensuring each home transaction supports happier pets and safer communities. Soares also discussed her upcoming "Sip & Safety" community event at Soares Martial Arts, further highlighting her commitment to safety for both pets and people.

Our Sip & Safety event helps pet owners and residents feel empowered, informed, and connected—strengthening the safety of our community one home and family at a time.”

Anne Soares, Lifetime Real Estate Advisor, revolv Real Estate.

In the podcast, Soares discussed critical real estate trends, offered practical advice for younger homebuyers from Gen Z and Millennials, and emphasized the importance of selecting homes tailored specifically to pet owners. Leveraging her extensive background in corporate auditing, risk management, and small business ownership, Soares guides clients through complex transactions with clarity and compassion. Soares stated, "Finding the perfect home for pets means ensuring it's safe, comfortable, and supports an active lifestyle. My clients know their pets' happiness is always my priority."

Red Hilton, host of "Tell Us a Story," praised Soares impact, saying, "Anne's dedication to pet-friendly living and community safety is genuinely inspiring. Her unique approach helps her clients not only find their perfect homes but also supports our entire community in feeling safer and more connected."

Soares involvement in community safety extends beyond real estate. Together with her family, Soares owns Soares Martial Arts, a respected local karate studio committed to community empowerment.
