WASHINGTON D. C., WA, UNITED STATES, March 18, 2025

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Ignacio Purcell Mena, founder and CEO of Black Star Group, continues to consolidate his leadership in the energy sector with the expansion of the company's regasification terminals in Europe.

This strategic move not only strengthens the continent's energy security but also optimizes the distribution of liquefied natural gas (LNG) in key markets.

Demand for LNG has grown exponentially in recent years, increasing by 30% over the last decade, according to data from the International Energy Agency (IEA).

Given this scenario, Black Star Group has opted to expand its infrastructure with regasification terminals in strategic locations such as Spain and Germany, thus ensuring a stable and efficient energy supply.

Key Infrastructure for the Energy Future

With the opening of new terminals, Black Star Group is optimizing access to LNG for various industrial and commercial sectors. These facilities will reduce dependence on less sustainable energy sources and strengthen the continent's capacity to manage growing energy demand.
