How Are Autoimmune Diseases Driving the Cosentyx Market?

The increasing prevalence of autoimmune diseases is a major factor propelling the growth of the Cosentyx market. Autoimmune diseases occur when the immune system mistakenly attacks healthy cells and tissues. Factors such as genetic predisposition, environmental influences like infections and pollution, and lifestyle changes, including stress and dietary habits, contribute to the rising incidence of these conditions. Cosentyx (secukinumab) effectively addresses these challenges by inhibiting interleukin-17A, a key cytokine in the inflammatory process, thereby reducing symptoms, enhancing quality of life, and managing conditions such as psoriasis, psoriatic arthritis, and ankylosing spondylitis.

Another critical driver of the Cosentyx market is the increase in healthcare expenditure. This encompasses spending on healthcare goods and services, personal healthcare, preventive services, and public health activities aimed at improving overall health outcomes. Several factors contribute to rising healthcare costs, including an aging population, increasing cases of chronic diseases, advancements in medical technology, high drug prices, inefficient payment models, and heightened demand for healthcare services.
