This innovative network moves beyond basic introductions by providing curated, data-driven connections designed to foster meaningful relationships and professional growth. Designed for Gen Z and Millennial women professionals, it offers a supportive environment for authentic connection, knowledge sharing, and mutual support, helping individuals build lasting, career-advancing relationships. Future updates will expand the platform's features, incorporating additional AI-powered tools for personalized job recommendations, mentorship matching, and access to an ever-growing network of like-minded professionals.

"We're not just a career community—Her Workplace is a vibrant network that allows women to connect in meaningful ways that go far beyond traditional networking," said Marilynn Joyner, founder and CEO of Her Workplace. "Our AI-powered platform offers the tools, resources, and connections needed to help members thrive in today's competitive corporate environment. It's time for a career network that actually connects people to the resources, opportunities, and people they need to advance and succeed in their careers."

Her Workplace is accessible via both web and mobile app, giving professionals the flexibility to manage their networking and career-building efforts from anywhere. The platform also offers mentorship with C-level executives, career coaching, professional development resources, and in-person events, experiences, and spaces through its partnership with Tishman Speyer in major cities including New York, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, and San Francisco, with plans for further expansion in the near future. With an emphasis on inclusivity, Her Workplace is committed to providing a dynamic and supportive environment where women professionals can access both in-person and virtual opportunities, resources, and a thriving network that prioritizes their career success.

“Her Workplace is changing the way women professionals interact with career networking,” added Joyner. “By focusing on data-driven, goal-oriented connections, we’re enabling individuals to build professional networks that are not only relevant to their career aspirations but are also built on mutual support and shared values.”

The network’s commitment to empowering women professionals extends beyond networking, as it continually strives to create an ecosystem where members can learn from one another, foster career development, and accelerate their professional trajectories. By offering a unique blend of AI technology and human-centered networking, Her Workplace is setting a new standard for career-focused platforms that center on the needs and aspirations of today’s next-generation leaders.
