Ten New Trends That Keep Me Up At Night

Workplaces have changed (some drastically) since 2020, making previous safety strategies obsolete.

I've been on the constant lookout for potential stressors. Unfortunately, I've found them everywhere, and they are not just impacting safety performance and safety culture. We must change our approach to meet these new realities; otherwise, we can expect broader organizational challenges in the days ahead.

These indicators (trends) observed in many workplaces concern me and should concern you. Ten new trends are significantly impacting overall performance and culture in most industries. A new strategy is needed.
