What Is the Key Market Driver for the Anterior Uveitis Market?

A significant driver for the anterior uveitis market is the rising prevalence of autoimmune diseases. Autoimmune diseases occur when the body's immune system mistakenly attacks healthy cells and tissues, perceiving them as foreign threats. This abnormal response results in inflammation and damage across various organs and systems. An increase in autoimmune diseases can be traced back to genetic predispositions, environmental influences, lifestyle alterations, and enhanced diagnosis stemming from heightened awareness. Anterior uveitis, a commonly occurring condition in autoimmune diseases, results in inflammation in the eye's anterior segment and is often associated with diseases such as rheumatoid arthritis and ankylosing spondylitis.

Who Are the Key Players in the Anterior Uveitis Market?

Central industry players in the anterior uveitis market include AbbVie Inc., Novartis AG, Amgen Inc., Aerie Pharmaceuticals Inc., Teva Pharmaceutical Industries Ltd., Regeneron Pharmaceuticals Inc., UCB S.A., Bausch & Lomb Incorporated, Cipla Ltd., Hikma Pharmaceuticals PLC, Cadila Pharmaceuticals Ltd., Santen Pharmaceutical Co.
