Many election officials have told us they couldn't find software that fit their organization's needs and complied with state rules. Through client input, we've built a platform that delivers on both""

Ballot Bliss, LLC is pleased to announce its new online voting platform focused on helping organizations create positive outcomes through secure, fair, and efficient elections.

Ballot Bliss redefines how organizations vote, with a secure, user-friendly platform, which aims to help organizations make critical decisions without the headaches admins encounter with traditional voting setups. Ballot Bliss is founded by Ashish Patel, who has over 18 years of experience in the HOA and property management experience through his company Pilera Software, LLC.

As online voting continues to grow, it offers numerous advantages for both voters and administrators. By shifting away from traditional voting setups, organizations are able to save thousands of dollars on printing, postage, and the returning of ballots. Voters, on the other hand, can enjoy the freedom of casting their ballots conveniently from any location. Ballot Bliss is in a perfect position to support this shift to online voting, providing a reliable process that has cut traditional voting expenses for many customers.

"Having worked with HOAs for several years, we saw just how frustrating elections can be for managers," says Mr. Patel. "With security risks, difficulty getting homeowners to vote, and the time sink of manually counting votes, the process was anything but smooth. We launched Ballot Bliss to change that and give HOAs and other organizations a secure, efficient, and user-friendly way to run elections."

"Many election officials have told us they couldn't find software that both fit their organization's needs and complied with state rules", says Ashish. "Through direct client input, we've built a platform that delivers on both fronts."
