

DIZPOT Commits to Mitigate Tariff Costs, Protecting Customers from Price Increases

PHOENIX, AZ, UNITED STATES, March 27, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- DIZPOT, a leading packaging, branding, and logistics company for highly regulated industries with expertise in cannabis, has pledged to mitigate the financial impact of new international import tariffs, ensuring its customers won't face higher costs.

This decision aligns with DIZPOT's ongoing commitment to support and advocate for the growth of the cannabis industry. Despite rising global trade costs, the company will maintain its current pricing and continue delivering seamless service without passing on additional expenses to clients.

“We understand the cannabis market is already facing numerous challenges,” said John Eason, Director of Operations and Logistics at DIZPOT. “Our customers depend on us for reliable pricing, timely delivery and high-quality products. It's our responsibility to shield them from the impact of rising tariffs so they can focus on running their businesses.”

Since 2017, DIZPOT has been building strong relationships with international vendors, leveraging its negotiation power on behalf of its customers to ensure the best supply chain efficiency and pricing.

"Supply chains can be disrupted by many factors beyond tariffs, like manufacturing defects, natural disasters and customs delays, to name a few. Partnering with experts who specialize in mitigating these risks is the best way to protect your business," said John Hartsell, Co-founder of DIZPOT.

As the cannabis industry evolves, DIZPOT remains dedicated to providing affordable services while adapting to the changing landscape and meeting the needs of its partners.
