Patrice Tsague, CEO of Smart Oregon Solutions, will continue to lead the company's strategic expansion efforts on a national and global scale.

A New Era for Smart Renewable Energy & Smart Cities

This merger represents a significant step in advancing clean energy initiatives, smart infrastructure deployment, and cutting-edge sustainable solutions. By leveraging their combined expertise, SOS and NetZero will:

A New Era for Smart Renewable Energy & Smart Cities

Expand Smart City & Renewable Energy Solutions – Delivering innovative, scalable, and cost-effective energy solutions for municipalities and private enterprises.

Strengthen National & Global Market Position – Utilizing synergies to drive major sustainability projects across the U.S. and beyond.

Invest in Smart Infrastructure – Supporting the transition to net-zero emissions and sustainable urban development.

“We are excited about this merger because it aligns our strengths and accelerates our vision for a sustainable future,” said Patrice Tsague, CEO of Smart Oregon Solutions. “Together, we will be more competitive, more innovative, and more impactful in delivering clean energy and smart city solutions.”

“This is the right move at the right time,” added Barry Redman, Founder of NetZero and new COO of Smart Oregon Solutions. “Our combined expertise, resources, and strategic focus will allow us to maximize growth opportunities while advancing cutting-edge sustainable solutions.”
