Annual Clinical Investigators' Summit (TCIS Africa 2025), taking place on May 5-9, 2025, in Dakar, Senegal. This prestigious event will bring together more than 200 professionals from the global clinical research, pharmaceutical, biotech, and regulatory sectors to discuss and explore innovations in clinical trials and healthcare solutions for Africa.

TCIS Africa 2025 promises to be a pivotal moment in the clinical research landscape, providing a platform for collaboration and networking. The summit will feature more than 20 distinguished speakers and 30 exhibitors, offering a rich mix of knowledge-sharing sessions, panels, and workshops.

TCIS Africa serves as a leading converging point for clinical researchers, medical professionals, CROs, regulatory bodies, and academics. The summit will highlight the region's growing potential as a hub for clinical trials and explore how data-driven healthcare solutions are transforming the African medical research sector.

"We are excited to host this year's TCIS Africa in Dakar, a city at the heart of Africa's growing healthcare and clinical research landscape," said Roseanne Onyia, Organizer of TCIS Africa. "This summit will showcase Africa's expanding role in the global clinical research community and provide opportunities to drive impactful partnerships across the continent and beyond."

Participants can expect to engage in dynamic discussions about key challenges and opportunities in the region, including expanding clinical trial access, regulatory frameworks, and sustainable research practices. The event aims to elevate Africa's position in the global clinical research arena, emphasizing the importance of collaboration for the region's healthcare development.
