The deliveries took place in Health City's newly designed maternity unit, where the mothers received specialized, attentive care in private, fully equipped birthing suites. The hospital's team of obstetricians, midwives, and neonatal specialists provided seamless support, ensuring a safe and comfortable experience for both mother and baby.

For the third birth, Dr. Rommel El-Madany, a distinguished consultant/specialist OB/GYN, had the honor of delivering the baby at Health City. While not a resident physician, he is among the medical professionals with access to perform deliveries at the facility.

A Milestone for Maternity Care in Cayman

Reflecting on the significance of these births, Dr. Binoy Chattuparambil, Clinical Director at Health City Cayman Islands, stated, "This moment represents the realization of a vision – to offer expectant families in the Cayman Islands a world-class birthing experience close to home. Our maternity unit is designed to provide the highest level of clinical care, but just as importantly, an environment that prioritizes the comfort and confidence of every mother. The arrival of these babies is a testament to the expertise and dedication of our team."

New mom Shiela Masangcay was beaming after the birth of her baby, the second to be delivered, as well as the service at the hospital. "My experience at Health City was truly outstanding.
