startup, officially launches today with a mission to make emotional support animal (ESA) letters more accessible, legitimate, and compassionate for those who need them. By connecting individuals with licensed mental health professionals through a simple, secure online platform, Your Service Animal aims to support those facing emotional or psychological challenges—while ensuring every ESA letter is clinically appropriate and legally compliant.

Emotional support animals can play a vital role in the mental health and wellbeing of individuals struggling with anxiety, depression, PTSD, and other conditions. However, the process of obtaining a legitimate ESA letter has often been confusing, inconsistent, or even exploitative. Your Service Animal is setting a new standard of care and integrity in the ESA space.

How It Works

Your Service Animal offers a streamlined, judgment-free experience designed around the user. After filling out a brief intake questionnaire, clients are connected with a licensed therapist in their state. If, after a clinical assessment, the therapist determines that an ESA is appropriate, the client will receive a legally recognized ESA letter that meets federal and state housing requirements.

Every step is designed to be fast, private, and secure—without sacrificing clinical rigor. Your Service Animal adheres to HIPAA-compliant practices, and all therapists are fully licensed in the states where they provide care.

A Response to Growing Need

“The pandemic changed how people think about mental health. More than ever, people are seeking alternative forms of support—like emotional support animals,” said Nick Jordan, founder of Your Service Animal. “But with that demand came a wave of shady websites and fake letters. We started this platform to bring professionalism and clinical legitimacy back into the process.”

Your Service Animal is built for people who genuinely need help managing emotional or psychological conditions with the aid of an ESA, and who want to do it the right way—without jumping through unnecessary hoops or worrying about scams.

Built for Accessibility and Trust

The platform is 100% online, with no in-person visits required. Whether you're a college student living with social anxiety, a veteran dealing with PTSD, or someone navigating everyday challenges with depression, Your Service Animal makes it easier than ever to access the documentation you need—if it's appropriate for your situation.

ESA letters issued through Your Service Animal are valid for housing accommodations under the Fair Housing Act. They help protect tenants from pet restrictions or extra fees, as long as the animal is well-behaved and does not pose a health or safety risk to others.

A Mission-Driven Startup

Your Service Animal is more than just a platform—it's a mission. The team is made up of clinicians, technologists, and advocates who believe that everyone deserves access to mental health support and that emotional support animals, when properly recommended, can be a vital part of someone's care plan.

As part of its launch, Your Service Animal is now accepting clients across all 50 states.
