

Belmont City Press Shines a Spotlight on revolv Real Estate Agents at The Game Changers Conference

Four revolv agents were featured keynote speakers at the transformative event celebrating community-focused leadership.

FALL RIVER, MA, UNITED STATES, April 3, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Belmont City Press LLC presented The Game Changers Conference (TheGameChangersConference.com), bringing together entrepreneurs, coaches, real estate professionals, and small business leaders for a full day of hands-on learning, networking, and keynote sessions designed to build credibility and visibility in business.

Organized by Empower Your Epic Self (EYES) and hosted by Red Hilton of Belmont City Press LLC, the event was curated to elevate mission-driven professionals from all industries by helping them master the power of public speaking and storytelling. The day included workshops, expert-led coaching, and the opportunity for each attendee to step onto the keynote stage to share their unique message.

The revolv Real Estate agents didn't just show up, they stood out. Their heart-led approach to real estate is exactly what today's industry needs.”

Among the standout moments of the day was the impressive showing from revolv Real Estate, a values-based brokerage serving Massachusetts and Rhode Island, known for empowering agents to specialize in service-driven niches. Four of the event's keynote speakers were revolv agents, and each one delivered a powerful presentation on how they use real estate as a platform for community impact and transformation.

“What we witnessed from the revolv agents on stage was nothing short of inspiring,” said Hilton, founder of Belmont City Press and host of The Game Changers Conference. “They weren’t just talking about buying and selling homes, they were talking about changing lives. These are the kinds of professionals who bring soul to the service industry.”

The revolv Real Estate team’s presence wasn’t just notable—it was transformative. These agents demonstrated how real estate, when approached with purpose, can deeply impact lives and communities. Their keynote talks highlighted not just what they do, but why they do it—and that message resonated with everyone in the room. Some takeaways from the agents included the power of authenticity, the importance of niche expertise, and the value of showing up for your community.

Michael Pereira

Helping Investors Say Yes to the Address

As founder of 'Say Yes to the Address by Mike', Michael Pereira captivated the audience with his keynote on empowering contractors and flippers to build long-term wealth through strategic investments. A Conference Built on Connection, Visibility, and Community Impact

The Game Changers Conference isn't your typical business event. It's a visibility accelerator that brings together speakers and seasoned professionals to step into the spotlight. With a powerful mix of workshops, stage time, and community-building, the event is a launchpad for anyone ready to amplify their voice and claim their space.

The morning featured an interactive session on media strategy, writing for visibility, and developing keynote skills. Attendees were then guided through the art of storytelling, connecting with their ideal audience, and creating content that converts. In the afternoon, each participant took the stage to deliver a five-minute keynote presentation—an exercise in courage, branding, and connection.

To ensure every voice was heard and amplified, each speaker received one-on-one coaching from conference host Hilton ahead of the event to refine their message and delivery. The day concluded with a 'Think Tank' collaboration that sparked new partnerships and expanded professional networks.

"This conference wasn't just about speaking, it was about being seen. It was about showing up for your community, your business, and yourself," said Hilton. "The revolv agents exemplified that. They brought their hearts to the mic and left everyone educated, entertained, and inspired."
