existing treatments."

Inqtel Pty Ltd has assembled an executive team of medical advisors and is forming strategic partnerships with universities and hospitals globally. These collaborations will support the company's pharmaceutical R&D division, dedicated to exploring and developing potential medicines for cancer patients.

"Our commitment to scientific research and collaboration is important," stated Ms. Georgiou, Director. "We are working with leading institutions to explore the development of potential therapies."

Looking ahead, Inqtel Pty Ltd anticipates a year of global expansion, with its strategic partners collaborating to explore potential treatments. The company also plans to announce the addition of a financial professional to its executive team, further strengthening its strategic leadership and financial capabilities.

"We are focused on growth and research," said Ms. Georgiou, Director. "The addition of a financial professional will complement our existing team, ensuring we have the resources and expertise to pursue our research goals."
