“The choice to enter the Alabama market came after identifying an increased demand for better service and greater transparency in the region. We’ve been receiving a number of proposal requests from associations based in Alabama, so launching new offices to serve these communities more effectively made perfect sense,” said Vernon Klein, President of Cedar Management Group.

Cedar Management Group has offices in North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. With the addition of its new office, the company will now extend its services across the state of Alabama. This expansion will contribute to the company's growing list of clients, including planned communities, homeowner associations, condominium associations, and mixed-use developments.

For 20 years, Cedar Management Group has offered trusted management solutions to residential and commercial associations. This success is made possible by a skilled team of professionals who continually raise the bar for consistent and effective association management. Services cover financial management, maintenance coordination, covenant enforcement, vendor management, and education for board members. With a concentration in HOA management, Cedar has honed its practices and maintained a high level of service.
