

Matrix AI Consulting Unveils Chief AI Officer Service to Guide Enterprise AI Adoption

New CAIO service gives enterprises access to a strategic AI leader without full-time overhead.

AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND, April 8, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As the AI revolution accelerates, Matrix AI Consulting has launched its new Chief AI Officer (CAIO) Service, giving medium to large enterprises access to a seasoned AI leader without the complexity of hiring a full-time executive.

This Fractional AI Manager offering helps organisations navigate AI transformation by providing high-level strategic guidance, risk mitigation, and scalable integration pathways. Designed for enterprise leaders who know that AI is no longer a “nice to have” but a mission-critical capability, the CAIO service ensures that businesses take decisive, future-proofed action.

"The pace of AI adoption is relentless, and enterprises need a Chief AI who understands both opportunity and risk," says Glen Maguire, Founder of Matrix AI Consulting. "Our Fractional Chief AI Officer service is your competitive edge—a strategic AI brain on your leadership team without the cost of full-time recruitment."

Key benefits of the CAIO service include:

- AI strategy and roadmap development tailored to business priorities
- Tool and technology assessment across Microsoft, OpenAI, Google, and other platforms
- Enterprise-grade AI governance and compliance frameworks
- Change leadership and internal alignment across departments

- Ongoing guidance to evolve AI maturity over time

The service is ideal for companies wrestling with questions like:

- What is our enterprise AI strategy, and who is accountable for it?
- How do we manage AI risks like bias, IP protection, and data privacy?
- Which platforms and tools offer the best ROI for our size and sector?
- How can we educate our leadership and workforce on responsible AI use?

Matrix AI's Fractional CAIOs bring deep cross-sector experience in aligning AI with business performance, employee productivity, customer experience, and digital transformation goals. The company's approach combines AI technical knowledge with strong commercial acumen—enabling transformation without disruption.

The service is already being deployed in industries including healthcare, financial services, civil construction, agritech, and destination marketing—where the role of a Chief AI Officer is becoming critical to future strategy. Matrix's CAIOs often collaborate with internal CIOs, CTOs, and innovation leads to unlock enterprise-wide value.

Glen Maguire adds: "Our clients don't need hype—they need execution. They need someone who understands the boardroom and the model weights. That's the CAIO we provide."

As part of the launch, Matrix AI Consulting is offering an AI Strategy Discovery session to qualifying enterprises. This initial engagement identifies key opportunities, risks, and a scalable path forward for AI deployment.
