Sphere, an innovative digital platform connecting patients with trusted medical specialists in Singapore, is now extending its services to patients in Thailand and Cambodia. This expansion is designed to provide individuals in both countries with a seamless way to access world-class medical care, all through a free and easy-to-use platform. While the platform itself is completely free, patients will still need to pay for any medical consultations or services directly to the specialists they engage with.

Launched by Sotavento Medios, a leading digital marketing agency in Singapore, Specialist Sphere aims to simplify the healthcare process by connecting patients with over 100 specialists in Singapore across various medical disciplines, including dermatology, cardiology, orthopedics, pediatric care, and more. This service helps bridge the gap for patients in Thailand and Cambodia who are seeking high-quality medical care in Singapore.

"Access to quality healthcare shouldn't be difficult, especially for those in neighboring countries like Thailand and Cambodia," said Jeremy Lee, spokesperson for Specialist Sphere. "Our platform is designed to make it easier for patients to find the right medical specialist in Singapore, without the usual hurdles. It's a simple, free service that empowers patients to connect directly with healthcare providers, while maintaining transparency around any costs associated with the services they choose."

Free Platform to Connect with Singapore's Top Medical Specialists

For patients in Thailand and Cambodia, Specialist Sphere is providing a digital bridge to Singapore's top medical professionals. Whether patients are seeking consultations for chronic conditions, wellness care, or specialist treatment options, the platform ensures that finding the right doctor is easy, fast, and transparent.

The platform's design prioritizes user-friendliness, allowing patients to search for specialists based on their medical needs and geographic location. Users can access comprehensive profiles of specialists, including information about their qualifications, the services they offer, and contact details to schedule consultations. All of this is available at no cost to the patient, ensuring they can make informed choices without the burden of additional platform fees.

While Specialist Sphere makes it easy to connect with specialists, any medical services engaged through the platform will be charged directly to the patient by the healthcare provider. This model ensures complete transparency in pricing, allowing patients to understand the costs associated with their healthcare before committing to any treatments or consultations.

"By offering a free service, we hope to eliminate the barriers that prevent many individuals in Thailand and Cambodia from seeking the medical care they need," said Jeremy Lee. "While patients still pay for medical services directly to the specialists, our platform provides an efficient, transparent way to connect with qualified healthcare professionals and access timely care."
