We believed from the beginning if only one life was saved, all our efforts would be worthwhile.”

Nick Silverio, Founder

To date, 425 lives have been given a chance at life — 413 in Florida, nine in other states and one in Honduras; over 6,000 teens and women helped in their time of need. “We believed from the beginning if only one life was saved, all our efforts would be worthwhile,” said Nick Silverio, Founder.

After a call is received at the helpline desk, and the needs of the expectant mother are known, Safe Haven for Newborns offers the mother the support and guidance she needs in their respective state. From providing shelter, referrals to counseling services, pre-natal care and transportation to doctors' appointments, help with abuse issues and suicide prevention, to providing newborn necessities and information on adoption are just a few of the services available to her.

Identified as a national model program for saving newborns from abandonment and assisting pregnant teens and women in crisis, A Safe Haven for Newborns has assisted other states and countries to develop similar programs that work for their communities. They were instrumental in helping Panama pass its own safe haven law. Silverio is in communication with a religious organization in Sri Lanka and key hospital personnel in South Africa to develop a similar program in their countries.
