

Maine Propels Cannabis Research Advancements At It's Brunswick Landing Innovation Center

The partnership is unique in the pharmaceutical and cannabis industry. Ensuring the availability of cannabis for research within the United States and Globally

BRUNSWICK, ME, UNITED STATES, April 11, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Maine Propels Cannabis Research Advancements At It's Brunswick Landing Innovation Center

Maridose, a leading Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) Licensed Bulk Manufacturer of cannabis for research proudly announces the establishment of a Center of Excellence for Cannabis Research at TechPlace at Brunswick

Landing, Maine. This expansion enhances the company's ability to provide high quality cannabis to approved researchers, supporting the company's ultimate goal of commercializing prescription drugs, non-prescription drugs, and dietary supplements.

Richard Shain, Maridose founder, expressed his gratitude for the support from the State of Maine and MRRA, the operator of Brunswick Landing. Shain emphasized, "We're grateful for the collaboration with the State of Maine and MRRA, who have been supportive of our vision for advancing cannabis research."

Locating at TechPlace gives Maridose access to cutting-edge technologies and a network of like-minded professionals. The synergy between Maridose's and TechPlace's ecosystem positions the company in the forefront of cannabis research. The parties are convinced Maridose's expertise in developing cannabis-related pharmaceuticals and wellness products will contribute to the growth of Maine's biotech community and the broader research industry.

Developed by Maine's Midcoast Regional Redevelopment Authority, TechPlace supports innovations capable of impacting the world

Parties interested in purchasing cannabis APIs for research or partnering with Maridose should directly contact the company.
