overload, and strengthening team management. HR for Health brings deep expertise in HR compliance and employee management, while Swiss Monkey offers flexible virtual support solutions—together delivering practical strategies for sustainable growth.

Built on shared values and a passion for education, the partnership emphasizes ongoing support through webinars, expert-led discussions, and resource sharing. These efforts aim to equip dental teams with the tools and knowledge they need to tackle common operational challenges—from hiring and staffing to compliance and internal processes.

“We know that running a practice isn't just about providing care—it's about managing people, processes, and performance,” said Ali Oromchian, JD, LL.M., CEO of HR for Health. “Our partnership with Swiss Monkey is an opportunity to share best practices and support dental teams in building compliant operations that actually work.”

“Practice owners wear too many hats,” said Christine Sison, CEO and Founder of Swiss Monkey. “Together with HR for Health, we’re focused on reducing that load—helping teams operate more efficiently and confidently by giving them the education and staffing resources they need.”

Together, HR for Health and Swiss Monkey will co-host educational events, contribute to resource libraries, and support each other’s audiences with best practices that span human resources, recruiting, compliance, and virtual support.
