empowerment.

Guests participated in engaging sessions covering critical topics such as financial literacy, digital transformation, personal branding, and venture capital funding. Additionally, the event provided ample opportunities for networking, netweaving, mentorship, and a vibrant business expo which showcased innovative products and services from women-led businesses.

“This conference is more than just an event—it’s a movement that equips women with the knowledge, resources, and networks to thrive in today’s dynamic business environment,” said Marie R. Gill Founder and CEO of the Women Mean Business International Conference.

During the morning’s Fireside Chat moderated by Gail Birks, patrons of WMBI 2025 gained valuable insight from distinguished panelists who shared on several crucial issues which included ‘Export and Compliance’, ‘Financial & Tax Strategies’ and ‘Business Financing’.

The 2025 WMBI Power Lunch emceed by the dynamic Sophia Nicholson, provided guests with insight from keynote speaker, Beverly Kuykendall, Chief Strategy Officer, AvMEDICAL, who expanded on key points such as collaboration to build businesses that benefit the community.

Adding unique flair to the event, were the presentations of the Annual Trailblazing Women Awards, Business & Community Service Awards, M. Gill*Her Grant Awards – WBE Certification and M. Gill*Her Business Financial Grant Awards, the WMBI fashion show sponsored by CZARINA and a memorable cultural presentation by the Jamaican Folk Revue & Tallawah Mento Band.

The conference concluded with a powerful call to action, encouraging attendees to leverage their newfound insights and connections to drive meaningful change in their respective industries and communities. As the momentum builds for the next edition, Women Mean Business International continues to shape the future of female entrepreneurship and leadership on a global scale.
