

Polynize and FITGMR Launch the Poly Performance Network to Redefine Human Potential in the AI Era

Polynize and FITGMR have announced the formation of the Poly Performance Network, preparing individuals and organizations to thrive in an AI-driven future.

WHITEFIELD, NH, UNITED STATES, April 16, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Two global leaders in human development—Polynize [polynize.io] and FITGMR [fitgmr.gg] —have announced the formation of the Poly Performance Network (PPN), a bold new initiative uniting world-class thinkers and practitioners to evolve how human performance is defined, developed, and rewarded.

The Poly Performance Network is a global consortium drawing from the worlds of elite sports, gaming, education, the arts, health, and business innovation. Its mission is to build an integrated, evidence-based framework for preparing individuals and organizations to thrive in an AI-driven future.

“In this time of rapid change, the concept of human performance is undergoing transformation. It is time to bring together knowledge, skills, health and behaviours into a holistic and data-driven view of performance as the basis for new ways to thrive in work and life.”

- Shourov Bhattacharya, Polynize, Co-founder and CEO

“Machine learning and technological advancements are changing how we live our lives and how corporations function. Focusing on human performance across modalities ensures our future generations will not only grow and thrive but maintain the balance and health essential for achieving the goal of living a fulfilling life.”

- Kristin Anderson, FITGMR, Co-founder and CEO

A Timely Initiative for a Changing World

At the heart of the Poly Performance Network is a focus on the new generation of young people worldwide who are coming of age in the AI era. With the accelerating impact of technology across all aspects of work and life, we face an urgent challenge: how to empower the next generation with the tools to stay competitive, fulfilled, and healthy in a rapidly evolving landscape.

The PPN lays the framework for answering this challenge by integrating key dimensions of performance:

- Technical capabilities
- Cognitive skills
- Social and team behaviours
- Mental health and habits
- Physical health factors
- Emotional intelligence
- Cultural competence

An All-Star Roster of Contributors

The Network brings together pioneers from:

- Elite Sports – High-performance coaching, mindset, and team-building
- Gaming and Esports – Competitive formats, flow states, performance data
- Business & Innovation – Strategic thinking, real-world simulations
- Education & Academia – Learning science, pedagogy, future skills
- Creative Industries – Storytelling, expression, and emotional intelligence
- Health & Wellbeing – Physical fitness, mental health, and lifestyle integration
- Culture & Society – Social impact, identity, community, and equity

Together, we will create a shared performance framework, design talent pathways, and use AI ethically and effectively in talent development.

What's Next

PPN will roll out a series of collaborative projects, including:

- Competitive simulations and global talent tournaments
- Research initiatives on the future of performance
- Mentorship and training for emerging talent
- A global summit to explore new pathways for excellence

The network is currently invite-only, but the founding teams are actively seeking visionary contributors across sport, education, technology and business.
