The Difficulties California's Financial Decision-Making Authorities Face

There is constant demand on small and medium-sized firms in California to efficiently handle bookkeeping while keeping expenses under control. Internal accounting teams are being overloaded as the need for scalability and compliance increases.

Key challenges include:

- 1) Rising costs of in-house accounting staff and software

2) Limited access to skilled accounting professionals locally

3) Delayed month-end closures and inconsistent financial reporting

4) Lack of real-time visibility into financials

5) Security concerns surrounding the sharing of sensitive financial data
