SEATTLE, WA, UNITED STATES, April 21, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- LifeScienceHistory.com, where history is made daily announces the release of its newest cartoon: "The NIH and U.S. Healthcare in Crisis" illustrates the current state of the world's largest public funder of biomedical research.

"The leading healthcare institutions that made our nation the world's leader in life science innovation are now undergoing massive budget cuts, employee layoffs, and research program cancellations, a first in our nation's history, and no one knows what the final impact will be," says Phil Ness, Founder and CEO of LifeScienceHistory.com.

The Initial cartoons known as "Toons & Teasers" on LifeScienceHistory.com, illustrate the COVID-19 Pandemic in the U.S. from the drawing of political battle lines, the COVID wave, and PPE distribution, to the vaccine rollout, the roller coaster ride, COVID vacations, and remembrance of the fallen.

The defense of "Science & Reason," the topic of Ness' first cartoon, received the 2021 Davenport International Cartoon Contest People's Choice Award. The topic is again in the news daily as healthcare agency budgets across the nation are ransacked and the new NIH director espouses misinformation as children die needlessly from measles, a preventable disease.

Other cartoons spotlight CRISPR and DNA technology, infectious disease, lifesaving vaccines, leading scientists, evolution, milestones in science, and other topics.
