agency known for its hands-on, investor-savvy approach, is proud to announce the expansion of its residential real estate services to Springdale, Arkansas. This marks another milestone in the company’s mission to deliver transparent, tailored property solutions to clients across the Northwest Arkansas region.

Originally founded as a Bentonville real estate agency by Nate Nead, a licensed real estate agent and seasoned investor, Estate.co offers a unique blend of local expertise, investment insight, and personalized service. The expansion to Springdale reflects the company's commitment to meeting growing demand in one of the region’s most dynamic housing markets.

“Springdale is experiencing strong population and economic growth,” said Nate Nead, founder of Estate.co. “It’s a natural extension of our footprint in Northwest Arkansas. As someone who’s spent years investing in and representing properties in the region, I’ve seen firsthand the energy and opportunity here. This expansion allows us to better serve both traditional buyers and sellers, as well as investors looking for turnkey options. We’re here to be more than just agents—we’re partners in long-term success.”

With a strong presence already established in Bentonville and surrounding areas, Estate.co's move into Springdale will give clients greater access to quality listings, expert guidance, and a team deeply familiar with the nuances of the local market. Whether buying, selling, or investing, clients can expect the same high level of professionalism and personal attention that Estate.co is known for.

“Springdale has a rich history and a promising future,” says Eddie Garcia, a local real estate professional joining the Estate.co Springdale team. “We’re seeing an increasing number of families, professionals, and out-of-state investors looking to plant roots here. With Estate.co’s innovative tools and personalized service model, we’re well-positioned to help clients navigate this exciting market.”

Estate.co plans to continue expanding its service footprint throughout the region in the coming year, while also investing in new technologies to better serve clients remotely and in person.
