

New Chopin Mazurka Workshop by Marjan Kiepura Getting International Response

Pianist and presenter Marjan Kiepura has just released an engaging new video workshop exploring the captivating world of Frédéric Chopin's mazurkas.

LITTLETON, NH, UNITED STATES, April 22, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Pianist and presenter, Marjan Kiepura, has just released a new video workshop on Frederic Chopin's mazurkas. Chopin was at his most prolific in this genre having composed some 58 mazurkas. In this informative presentation, Marjan covers the three types of mazurkas – Kujawiak, Mazur and Oberek - and the special rhythms and accents. Performance options are covered, making this workshop an invaluable resource for both musicians and Chopin enthusiasts.

As someone of Polish heritage, I feel a profound connection to Chopin's mazurkas. They are more than music - they're expressions of a culture, a people, and a national soul.

Marjan Kiepura

Originally created for a Graduate Piano Literature class at the Manhattan School of Music, this video offers a summarized version of that presentation. Chopin's mazurkas have been a life-long interest of Marjan with numerous performances, as well as being a recording artist and author about the mazurkas. A recent article titled: "Thoroughly Polish: Chopin's Mazurkas", was written for and published in London's "The Pianist Magazine".

Since the launch of his Chopin album entitled "Images of a Homeland", pianist Marjan Kiepura has gained a significant online following. His development as an artist, and his own Polish ancestry, has led him to focus on Chopin's music. Kiepura has performed works by Chopin in the US, UK and Europe, focusing on the mazurkas, which he has extensively researched and continues to share with a global audience.
