The dispensary's product selection features a variety of cannabis brands licensed through New York's regulatory framework. Among the brands available are Ayrloom, BHF, Off Hours and New York Honey — each representing licensed cultivators and processors that are part of the state's legal cannabis supply chain.

Ayrloom, a brand developed by the operators of Beak & Skiff Apple Orchards, offers cannabis-infused edibles and beverages. The brand's presence in licensed dispensaries reflects increasing consumer interest in infused products made with regionally sourced ingredients.

BHF, also known as Black Horse Farms, focuses on small-batch cannabis cultivation and production. The company participates in New York's efforts to promote a sustainable cannabis industry by supporting local growers and prioritizing New York-based sourcing.

Off Hours provides cannabis products developed with simplicity and approachability in mind. Its product line typically includes straightforward formulations, designed to meet the preferences of consumers seeking accessible options within the state's legal market.

New York Honey, another licensed brand available at the dispensary, is recognized for its THC-infused product offerings. The company operates as part of New York's regulated network of processors and manufacturers.

All cannabis products sold at RR Legacy Cannabis & Weed Dispensary undergo the required testing and compliance procedures outlined by the Office of Cannabis Management. These procedures include laboratory testing, labeling requirements, and product traceability from cultivation to sale. The dispensary's inventory and operations are fully integrated into the state's track-and-trace system, supporting transparency and compliance with state regulations.

The Glens Falls location serves local residents and surrounding communities, including Queensbury, Hudson Falls and South Glens Falls.
