Adventure Racing is a global phenomenon, and India is quickly carving its place on the global adventure map.”

Heidi Muller. CEO ARWS

After months of meticulous planning involving logistics, transport, accommodation, equipment, and manpower, the event unfolded with precision and international standards as part of the Adventure Racing World Series. The result? An unforgettable experience etched in the hearts of participants and organizers alike.

Part of the Global Adventure Racing Community

Ms. Heidi Muller, CEO of the Adventure Racing World Series (ARWS), USA, remarked: Adventure Racing is a global phenomenon, and India is quickly carving its place on the global adventure map. From local sprint events to a full-fledged National Championship – this growth is very inspiring. Arunachal Pradesh proved to be an outstanding host. I extend heartfelt thanks to the Chief Minister and Tourism Minister for their warm hospitality. I look forward to returning and witnessing India's continued rise in the adventure racing world.

Indian Terrain Meets Global Challenge

Race Directors Ms. Ajita Madan and Ms. Sayeesha Kirani of NthAdventure commented;
“India, with its rich tradition, diverse culture, and breathtaking landscapes, is a natural home for Adventure Racing. Our collaboration with Arunachal Pradesh allowed us to blend endurance sport with eco-tourism and cultural heritage. The terrain of Mechukha was challenging yet rewarding. We are deeply grateful to all over stakeholders to bring life to vision.”

The Race, Teams and Triumphs

With competitors from 12 Indian states and athletes from 3 countries (Malaysia, Nepal and South Africa) this championship was a melting pot of cultures and the ultimate test of team grit. Navigating through Mechukha’s rugged trails—under blistering sun, cold rains, and racing through centuries old hamlets—every team showed relentless determination.
