A Tradition Rooted in Quality and Horticultural Expertise

Gold's Landscaping isn't just another landscaping business—it's a company with deep local roots. Owned and operated by Nate Gold, the company carries a legacy in Utah's horticulture industry that began in 1952 with Pineae Greenhouses in Centerville. After working in the greenhouse industry for over 20 years, Nate founded Gold's Landscaping in 2002, combining his plant expertise with his passion for outdoor design and construction.

With more than two decades of successful residential and commercial projects, the company is known for its thoughtful designs, sustainable practices, and hands-on service.

The company provides a comprehensive landscape service package from start to finish. Their in-house design team works closely with each client to create custom outdoor living areas that match both lifestyle needs and aesthetic preferences. Hardscape Construction: Form Meets Function

One of the standout capabilities is hardscape patio construction in Utah. The company builds patios, retaining walls, and pathways using long-lasting materials like flagstone, pavers, and boulders that hold up against seasonal freeze-thaw cycles.

Whether the goal is a classic stone sitting area or a more contemporary paved gathering space, every project is engineered for durability and ease of maintenance. These hardscape elements not only add usable square footage to outdoor areas but also define zones for dining, relaxation, and play.

Clients seeking hardscape patio design in Utah benefit from the team's hands-on experience, attention to detail, and commitment to blending structure with the surrounding natural environment.

Enhancing Outdoor Spaces with Water Features

Professional landscapers also offer water feature installation in Utah, allowing homeowners to incorporate the soothing sound and visual beauty of water into their yards. Popular installations include:

- Pond landscaping
- Cascading waterfalls
- Bubbling fountains
- Custom-built koi ponds
- Serene basin features

These outdoor water features can become the focal point of a garden or add ambient sound to quiet seating areas. Each system is designed for efficiency and includes proper filtration and circulation for long-term enjoyment with minimal upkeep.

Efficient Irrigation Systems for Utah Yards

To keep plants healthy and green without wasting water, irrigation system installation is a key offering from professionals. Whether installing a sprinkler system, garden drip irrigation, or hybrid systems, the team designs setups that conserve water and support long-term plant health.

Drip irrigation, for example, delivers moisture right to the plant roots, reducing evaporation and runoff. Smart controllers, zoning, and weather-based adjustments ensure clients save money on utilities while helping Utah's fragile ecosystem.

The company also assists with upgrades, maintenance, and repairs, helping homeowners and property managers stay efficient year-round.

Fencing That Matches the Landscape

They provide vinyl fence installation in Box Elder County and surrounding regions. From white vinyl fences in Box Elder to modern privacy designs, their fencing solutions are both attractive and practical. As an extension of landscape design, fences provide structure, define property lines, and create safe, enclosed areas for kids and pets.

Their team ensures proper alignment, durable footing, and seamless finishes—essential qualities for fences that will face Utah's elements year-round. In addition to vinyl fencing, Gold's Landscaping also offers chain link and ornamental fencing depending on customer needs.

Expert Sod Installation for a Greener Lawn Fast

For those who want instant green without the wait, new sod installation in Davis County is another in-demand service. The team sources high-quality sod varieties that perform well in Utah's climate zones, prepping each yard for successful root establishment.

From leveling the soil and correcting drainage issues to laying and rolling the sod, the installation process is carefully managed to ensure long-lasting results. Professionals also provide follow-up watering schedules and care instructions to help clients maintain their lush new lawns.

Custom Planting Services with Seasonal Planning

As a family rooted in horticulture, landscaper takes pride in selecting and installing the right plants for every environment. From flowering perennials to mature shrubs and decorative trees, every species is handpicked for both beauty and sustainability.

The plant installation team in Morgan specializes in color planning, soil amendment, spacing, and seasonal compatibility. Whether it's spring blooms, summer shade, or fall foliage, the planting designs are built to evolve throughout the seasons.

Land Clearing and Property Prep

Before any landscaping can begin, many projects require site prep. Gold's Landscaping acts as a land clearing contractor, offering the removal of brush, trees, boulders, and debris to prepare residential and commercial lots for construction or beautification.

Their team uses the right equipment to clear land efficiently and safely, always with an eye on erosion control and future grading needs.

Natural-Looking Rock Walls and Boulder Retaining Walls

Utah's mountainous terrain often demands slope stabilization. That's why boulder retaining walls in Davis County are one of the company's most requested services. These structures are both functional and natural in appearance, doubling as stunning visual elements while holding soil in place.

They build rock walls for landscaping in Utah using local materials, often combining them with planting pockets, drainage solutions, and steps for multi-level yards.

Seasonal Services and Snow Removal

In winter, landscaping services shift to snow removal and seasonal property maintenance. The team is prepared to keep sidewalks, driveways, and commercial lots clear and safe. Qualified landscapers understand the importance of timely snow management in preventing accidents and maintaining business operations.

They also provide seasonal cleanups, pruning, and preparation services in fall and spring, so clients' properties always look their best.
