LANSDALE, PA, UNITED STATES, April 28, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Black Heart Tattoo & Gallery is set to host the Inside Out art exhibit by Alena Scogna, an artist known for her evocative exploration of self-expression through abstract and expressionist styles. Launching on May 2, this exhibition promises a unique fusion of visual artistry within Lansdale's renowned venue, marrying tattoo craft with gallery displays.

"Art should not only be seen but felt," said Natalie Venezia, Owner and CEO of Black Heart Tattoo & Gallery. "Alena's work invites viewers into a dialogue about the unseen layers beneath our perceived realities."

This exhibit challenges us to reconsider the boundaries we often impose upon ourselves creatively."

From an early age, Scogna was captivated by representational art—a passion sparked by coloring books and design kits during childhood. However, it was only after years of producing conventional works that she began to interrogate the boundaries between perception and creation in her own practice.

"Drawing what you see is cool and seems natural," explained Scogna in discussing her artistic evolution. "But exploration into your feelings and wanting to express them in different ways becomes liberating when you overcome caring what others think."

Inside Out marks a pivotal point for both the artist and Black Heart Tattoo & Gallery as they seek to push creative boundaries beyond traditional frameworks. This collaboration underscores the gallery's commitment to fostering emerging voices who challenge conventional norms through their storytelling capabilities via multiple mediums.

"This exhibit challenges us to reconsider the boundaries we often impose upon ourselves creatively," said Natalie Venezia, Owner and CEO of Black Heart Tattoo & Gallery. "Alena's work embodies the journey of breaking those constraints, allowing raw emotion and intuition to guide her artistic hand."

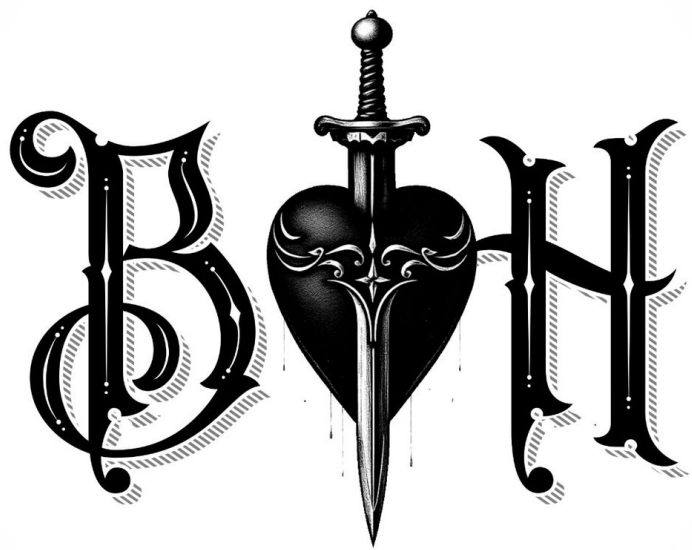

"In today's world where conformity often reigns supreme," noted Venezia further emphasizing content-centricity over aesthetics alone: "We champion those daring enough not just courageously stepping outside comfort zones; rather reimagining how far personal narratives can stretch when given free rein."

This anticipated collection serves as an embodiment—not simply showcasing painted canvases—but represents deeper insights derived from rigorous internal dialogues held throughout life stages marked notably post-childhood endeavors transitioning eventually towards adulthood aspirations realized fully now alongside continuing developments ever-unfolding anew each day following thereafter too!

The exhibit will run May 2nd from 6pm to 9pm and remain until May 30th at Black Heart Tattoo & Gallery located minutes away from Philadelphia city limits.

My Beginnings

Black Heart Tattoo & Gallery

The art community has awaited this showcase with eager anticipation as it not only highlights Scogna's individual talent but also aligns with Black Heart Tattoo & Gallery's overarching mission: providing a platform for innovative voices that challenge conventional narratives. Venezia continued, "In presenting such transformative works within our space here just outside Philadelphia city limits, we're facilitating conversations about creativity that transcend beyond mere aesthetics."

The exhibition promises visitors an intimate engagement with pieces that navigate between internal reflection and outward expression—a testament to both Alena's personal growth as an artist and the gallery's commitment toward fostering novel dialogues through diverse media forms.
