FSSC 22000 is globally recognized, including by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, for its rigorous standards in food safety, and this certification achievement underscores the company's unwavering commitment to food safety and quality in every step of the production process.

"We're extremely proud to be the first U.S. airline caterer to earn the FSSC 22000 certification at our ORD facility," said CEO Greg Anderson, Sky Chefs. "This achievement reflects our relentless pursuit of excellence in food safety and quality. Our dedicated team has built a robust, industry-leading food safety program that not only meets but exceeds global standards, ensuring that every meal we serve is safe, exceptional, and of the highest quality."

"We lead the airline catering industry because we consistently push the boundaries, take proactive measures in maintaining superior safety protocols, and focus on providing innovative culinary solutions to our airline partners," added Anderson. "We've only just begun with ORD, and we plan to scale elevated food safety certification across our entire network with the intent of becoming the industry leader in food safety."
