Dr. Megha Shah, Dr. Waqas Rehman, Dr. Myron Bednar, Dr. Kenneth B. Blankstein, and Dr. Swee Ngeow of Hunterdon Hematology Oncology

Tucked away in the heart of Flemington, New Jersey, Hunterdon Hematology Oncology stands as a source of strength and healing for individuals and families facing cancer. Their flagship location—home to both the main office and a cutting-edge infusion center—is seamlessly connected to the Hunterdon Regional Cancer Center, offering patients easy access to a full spectrum of care under one roof.

What sets Hunterdon Hematology Oncology apart is its unwavering dedication to combining the latest in cancer treatments with a deeply personal approach to care. Their modern infusion center provides a wide array of therapies, from chemotherapy and immunotherapy to specialized non-cancer infusions, all delivered in a calm, supportive environment. Their care extends beyond medicine. Recognizing that a cancer diagnosis affects the whole person, the practice offers comprehensive support services through compassionate social workers. These professionals offer emotional guidance, counseling, and connections to community resources, ensuring no one walks the journey alone.

The medical team at Hunterdon Hematology Oncology is nationally respected and highly trained, with physicians who have completed prestigious fellowships in oncology and hematology. Many are actively involved in innovative clinical trials, giving patients access to promising new treatments that could shape the future of cancer care.

At its core, Hunterdon Hematology Oncology is more than a medical practice—it's a place where hope, healing, and humanity come together.
