I'm a botanical watercolor artist -- with my art I hope to reveal the beauty of flowers, fruits and vegetables..."

Solo Exhibition*

Gallery Reception: Saturday, May 24, 5 – 8 pm

• Sally Jacobs: "I'm a botanical watercolor artist -- with my art I hope to reveal the beauty of flowers, fruits and vegetables... to unveil the beauty of the whole and the intricate patterns and details that can give viewers a new appreciation of what they may have taken for granted."

• David Lang: "'Journeys' chronicles three specific areas of my life experience; Japan, France, and the U.S. Pacific Northwest... I hope that in viewing my art you will also find a connection to that which connects with me."

- Shelley Lazarus: "The process for me is always a very exciting trip... Watching the mixed colors blend, the happenings on the paper and the surprises and satisfaction I feel in this world I have created... my first and true love has always been watercolor."

- Mel Smothers: "I'm influenced by painters throughout art history who painted the truth in the face of greed, power and disinformation. I'm endeavoring to throw my brush into history painting."

- Susan Dukow: "Recently, I was encouraged to concentrate on my painting, allowing my love of collage to take a back seat... I find yet new passages of discovery and wonderment... of art and self... to discover what had been buried for so long deep inside of me."

- Judy Zimbert: "I have spent most of the last twenty-plus years in my studio... the tone of the work, the mark-making, as such, doesn't change that much. It juxtaposes differently, assumes more complex positions in space and shows new colors."

TAG Gallery invites the public to experience these diverse and captivating exhibitions. All exhibitions and receptions are free. For more information, please visit www.taggallery.net or contact gallery@taggallery.net.
