The Risks Associated with In-House Payroll for Texas Small Businesses

Internal payroll administration is difficult for many SMBs because of:

1. Changing Compliance Requirements: Risks of noncompliance are increased by frequent revisions to federal, state, and municipal tax laws.

2. Expensive Payroll Errors: Penalties and employee disputes arise from mistakes in tax returns or salary computations.

3. Limited Internal Expertise: The majority of small firms do not have specialized payroll teams, which takes attention away from tasks that generate income.

4. Data Vulnerability: Sensitive payroll data is vulnerable to breaches due to inadequate security measures.

5. Insignificant Operational Costs: Keeping up-to-date payroll systems in-house requires a significant financial investment.
