

'Khuaar Ho'e Sabh Milege': A Spiritual Call to Unity Echoes from Sri Akal Takht Sahib Ji to the Sikh Diaspora

Sri Akal Takht Sahib's Message of Humble Unity Echoes Across Sikh Diaspora

MANTECA, CA, UNITED STATES, May 3, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- On April 30, 2025, the sacred grounds of Sri Akal Takht Sahib Ji, the temporal throne of Sikh sovereignty, a powerful call to spiritual and communal unity is gaining global momentum. The initiative, titled "Khuaar Ho'e Sabh Milege" (All Will Unite in Humility), has been launched under the guidance of Singh Sahib Giani Kuldeep Singh Ji Gharghaj, a respected religious leader and torchbearer of Sikh tradition.

More than just a slogan, "Khuaar Ho'e Sabh Milege" has become a movement, a collective reminder of the need for humility, seva (selfless service), and mutual respect within the Sikh Panth and beyond. The phrase, rooted in Sikh scripture and ethics, emphasizes that through humility and spiritual grounding, the entire Sikh community can transcend division and restore a sense of unity under the banner of the Guru.

This landmark initiative is being amplified in India and internationally, most notably through the efforts of Dr. Satpreet Singh, President of the Sikh Reference Library USA, who has embraced the campaign as a global mission to unify the Sikh voice across continents.

Originating from the Highest Temporal Authority: Sri Akal Takht Sahib

The campaign's spiritual gravity lies in its birthplace—Sri Akal Takht Sahib Ji, established by Sri Guru Hargobind Sahib Ji as the seat of justice and sovereign action. It is from this sacred space that Singh Sahib Giani Kuldeep Singh Ji Gharghaj has envisioned a revival of Panthic unity based not in political rhetoric but in divine humility, scriptural literacy, and Gurmat-based action.

Speaking at the formal unveiling of the initiative, Singh Sahib stated:

“When we kneel in humility, we rise in unity. ‘Khuaar Ho’e Sabh Milege’ is not a slogan—it is Guru Sahib’s hukam (divine command) to rise above ego and differences and walk as one Panth, one spirit, one purpose.”

The initiative seeks to reconnect individuals and institutions to Sri Akal Takht Sahib Ji-centric governance, reaffirming the core tenets of Sikh Rehat Maryada (code of conduct), reverence for Gurbani, and collective decision-making guided by the Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji.

Global Sikh Leaders Unite Around the Vision

One of the foremost international advocates of the initiative is Dr. Satpreet Singh, who traveled from California, USA, to Sri Amritsar Sahib Ji to express solidarity with the campaign and to formally endorse the message through institutional support.

Dr. Singh, a decorated academic, humanitarian, and spiritual leader, is at the helm of the Sikh Reference Library USA—a committed to the preservation, digitization, and promotion of Sikh history and values. In his dialogues at Sri Akal Takht Sahib with Singh Sahib Giani Kuldeep Singh Ji Gharghaj, Dr. Singh highlighted that the movement holds special relevance for the Sikh diaspora, who often struggle to maintain spiritual connection while navigating cultural distance.

“For Sikhs living far from Sri Amritsar Sahib Ji, the call of ‘Khuaar Ho’e Sabh Milege’ is a beacon. It reminds us that the true essence of Sikhi is not in separation, but in Sangat. When we bow before the Guru, we rise as one,” said Dr. Satpreet Singh.

Under Dr. Singh's leadership, the Sikh Reference Library USA has launched an international campaign to promote the movement across Gurdwaras, educational forums, and social media platforms in North America and Europe. Materials in multiple languages, like Punjabi, English, and Hindi, are being prepared to expand the message's reach.

Humility as the Antidote to Division

The term “Khuaar”, in traditional Sikh thought, refers to a state of spiritual disorientation or being lost in worldly chaos. To be “khuaar ho’e” is to let go of ego and confusion, and by doing so, to return to divine alignment.

The phrase originates from a verse in Sikhism, which emphasizes that those who humble themselves will ultimately unite with others and with the Divine. In the context of the modern Sikh community facing ideological divides, institutional dissonance, and generational gaps—this message carries profound weight.

Singh Sahib Giani Kuldeep Singh Ji Garghaj explained:

“This initiative is not about criticism or condemnation. It is about introspection and transformation. Each of us, regardless of jatha, geography, or generation, must ask: are we living in humility or in haumai (ego)?”

Collaborative Programs, Seminars, and Recognition

To further the reach of this spiritual mission, several programs were held at Sri Amritsar Sahib where local Sikh preachers (pracharaks), dhadis, and Kavishars (poet-singers) were honored for their roles in promoting Sikh history and values through oral and poetic traditions.

During one such event, organized as part of the movement, Singh Sahib Giani Kuldeep Singh Ji Gharghaj, Bhai Bijay Singh, and Dr. Satpreet Singh jointly recognized and honored frontline Panthic voices who have preserved Sikh history through performance, song, and speech. This symbolic act connected the spiritual ethos of “Khuaar Ho’e Sabh Milege” to the living tradition of Sikh cultural expression.

Notable honorees included:

- Bhai Balwant Singh (Enokot)

- Bhai Sukhraj Singh (Dadoyodh)
- Bhai Gurvinder Singh
- Bhai Balkar Singh (Ajnala)
- Dhadi Daljit Singh (Vichhoa)
- Kavisar Lakhbir Singh (Teri)
- Kavisar Sarwan Singh (Shaam Nagar)
- Kavisar Piara Singh (Shonki)
- Kavisar Singh Panchhi
- Kavisar Navjot Singh (Saham Nagar), among others.

Dr. Satpreet Singh emphasized that going forward, Sikh Reference Library USA will institutionalize annual recognition awards for such contributors, especially from under-resourced regions of Punjab and the diaspora.

Bridging the Homeland and the Diaspora

The most compelling aspect of this initiative is its transnational character. While rooted in the physical space of Sri Akal Takht Sahib Ji, the spirit of the campaign is spreading globally. Diaspora communities in the U.S., Canada, the U.K., and Australia are already aligning local programs with the principles of “Khuaar Ho’e Sabh Milege.”

Dr. Singh announced that we are planning academic seminars and youth workshops in California, Chicago, Toronto, and London under this theme in partnership with local Gurdwaras and Sikh student organizations.

“This is not just about remembering the Sri Akal Takht Sahib Ji; it is about centering it in our lives. Whether in Amritsar or Los Angeles, our direction must be aligned with the Guru’s path,” he stated.

Panthic Endorsements and Sangat Engagement

The initiative has received overwhelming support from Panthic bodies, including the Dharam Parchar Committee of Amritsar Sahib, the Shiromani Dhadhi Sabha, and various educational institutions across Punjab.

Secretary Bijay Singh, who has been instrumental in coordinating Panthic events at Sri Akal Takht Sahib Ji, noted:

“Dr. Singh’s involvement adds a layer of global responsibility to this campaign. His commitment to Panthic causes is genuine and longstanding. We are honored to work alongside him to spread this divine message.”

Several youth groups and Gurbani scholars have also started online forums and Kirtan samagams dedicated to discussing the deeper meaning of “Khuaar Ho’e Sabh Milege.” These platforms have created space for intergenerational dialogue and scriptural learning.

A Message for the Future

As the world grapples with spiritual disconnection, communal strife, and identity fragmentation, the Sikh principle of humility as a unifying force stands as a powerful alternative. The “Khuaar Ho’e Sabh Milege” initiative is not merely a campaign—it is a spiritual awakening for a Panth that has always been defined by its courage, unity, and compassion.

In the words of Dr. Satpreet Singh:

“We must see each other through the Guru’s eyes—not through caste, color, language, or borders. Our time is now. Let us answer the call.”

The campaign will continue to evolve with seminars, literary publications, global webinars, and Sangat feedback sessions.
