/EINPresswire.com/ -- Bestselling author Dani Pettrey weaves her deep patriotic heritage as a veteran spouse and sixth-generation military family member into her gripping suspense novels. Her unwavering commitment to national service and love for her country fuel the thrilling narratives of her latest series, JEOPARDY FALLS, including the new and captivating release "Two Seconds Too Late."

"My new novel, 'Two Seconds Too Late,' explores profound themes like depression and reveals the stark realities faced by veterans in crisis. Drawing from my own struggles with depression, I understand its crippling weight. Yet, I've also found that faith in Jesus Christ offers transformative hope, turning even the darkest moments into joy. This story delves into that delicate balance, shedding light on the often-ignored topic of mental health within our military and veteran communities," Pettrey said.

May marks Military Spouse Appreciation Month, honoring the strength and contributions of nearly 1 million military spouses. It's also a time to commemorate those who made the ultimate sacrifice for their country and fellow servicemember. For Pettrey, Memorial Day and Military Spouse Appreciation Month carry profound significance as the Armed Forces shift from large-scale battles to smaller, often remote conflicts that leave enduring emotional and physical scars.

Pettrey hails from a long line of military service, with ancestors and extended family who fought in the American Revolution, Civil War, World War I, Vietnam, and the Gulf War.

They include:

American Revolution soldiers 2nd Lt. Abraham Leasure II and his sons, Daniel Leasure Sr., Pvt. John Leasure and Pvt. Abraham Leasure III, all Pennsylvania enlistees from Westmoreland County.

Col. Daniel Leasure, who served in the Union Army's 100th Pennsylvania Infantry, IX Corps, during the Civil War.

Jacob P. Kleinsasser of Max, North Dakota, who died in combat on October 14, 1918, with Company E, 313th Ammunition Train in France during World War I.

Pettrey's connection to military service grew upon meeting her husband. Her father-in-law, U.S. Army Spc. Jimmy Pettrey is a Vietnam War veteran, and her husband, Michael Pettrey, served in the U.S. Navy during the Persian Gulf War.
