“Ms. Anderson’s leadership is driven by integrity, compassion, and a true commitment to equity and service,” said Superintendent Dr. Emy Flores. “She leads with heart and purpose—uplifting the voices of classified professionals and advancing a vision where every community member is seen, supported, and valued. We are so proud to celebrate her well-deserved recognition.”

Since stepping into her leadership role as union president, Anderson has spearheaded several initiatives that have had a lasting impact. Her work includes organizing community drives, increasing member access to the CSEA Humanitarian Fund, expanding professional development opportunities, and championing staff recognition and member engagement activities. Her efforts have built stronger connections among staff and the broader West Covina community.

“Ms. Anderson leads by example—she’s collaborative, solutions-oriented, and always focused on people first,” said Michael Seaman, Assistant Superintendent of Human Resources. “Her dedication to our classified team and student success has created a more supportive, united
