numerous to name.

The 'Fresh Perspective Series' encourages robust social engagement, shared insights and scientifically vetted answers to questions one may be hesitant to ask otherwise. These onstage moderated interviews and Q&A sessions are crossing the aisle in the medical community for the benefit of all patients. Practitioners of conventional allopathic medicine (one drug for one symptom) and the practice of functional integrative medicine are melding these approaches in the practice of 'health' care rather than 'sick' care. Those practitioners specializing in the treatment of the root cause of disease instead of just the symptoms have empirically proven this is the superior path for those questing a lifetime of preventative care, optimal health and wellbeing. The intention of the 'Fresh Perspective Series' is to share insights and revelations that can be applied to strengthening our day-to-day outlook and peace of mind.

Dr. Kent Holtorf, M.D. is recognized for his groundbreaking research and successful applications of peptide, hormone and immune modulatory therapy. He has advanced evolutionary therapies in the treatment of complex MS, ALS and is a pioneer in understanding and the increased prevalence of autism and its' improved prognosis.
