

Epic Level Entertainment's Film The Lord of All Future Space and Time To Premiere at the 2025 Tribeca Film Festival

HOLLYWOOD, CA, UNITED STATES, May 7, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- A grief-stricken cowboy is saved by a duffle bag from the future. The rest is history.

Epic Level Entertainment's Dana Guerin, Cindi Rice and John Frank Rosenblum are proud to announce that their film, The Lord of All Future Space and Time, written and directed by Chris Paul Russell, will be making its World Premiere at this year's Tribeca Film Festival. This is the first collaboration between Epic Level Entertainment's Guerin, Rice & Rosenblum and Director Russell, who explained his inspiration for the film:

"This is a story about grief, about the flow of time and how our actions direct and re-direct that flow, in ways we can't always anticipate. It's a story about the unsolved and unspoken mysteries of existence: that we are born, live and die, all without ever knowing why. Why it all manifested as a sci-fi western comedy, I don't know. Just another of life's mysteries." Rosenblum added that "Epic Level Entertainment spent more on this production than the BBC used to spend on an episode of Doctor Who and it is all on the screen. Chris Paul Russell has an amazing style of visual storytelling reminiscent of Douglas Adams' The Hitch-Hiker's Guide to the Galaxy but set in the old west rather than in space."

The film will receive its World Premiere at the 2025 Tribeca Film Festival in New York City. Producers Dana Guerin & Cindi Rice and Executive Producer John Frank Rosenblum, while thrilled to be in competition at Tribeca, are no strangers to the festival. Together through Epic Level Entertainment, they produced Charlie Says, a biopic on the deprogramming of the Manson women in prison, which had its US premiere at the Tribeca Film Festival in 2019, and Guerin's film Hargrove, a bio-doc about Jazz Musician Roy Hargrove, which premiered at Tribeca in 2022.
