/EINPresswire.com/ -- Environ Energy, a national leader in sustainable energy solutions, today announced the acquisition of Rapid Power Management (RPM), a Texas-based energy advisory firm with deep expertise in the Electric Reliability Council of Texas (ERCOT) territory. The acquisition enhances Environ's ability to deliver commercial energy procurement, energy efficiency, sustainability, and engineering services to a broader national audience.

The move brings JD Dodson—veteran energy advisor and founder of RPM—along with his full team of energy management professionals, into the Environ family. Their expertise will strengthen Environ's growing portfolio and extend its services beyond its current base of more than 4,000 clients.

“We've been looking for the right partner to expand our product line and reinforce our presence in Texas,” said Christopher Sternberg, CEO of Environ. “With JD and his team, we've found proven entrepreneurs who deeply understand their market. I could not be more excited to welcome RPM into the Environ family.”

Dodson and the RPM team will continue serving their commercial and industrial clients across Texas, now supported by Environ's national infrastructure and robust resources in finance, marketing, sales, and client support.

“I'm thrilled to join forces with Environ to deliver expanded capabilities to our clients, especially at a time when organizations are under mounting pressure from volatile energy markets, sustainability demands, and evolving compliance standards,” said JD Dodson. “This partnership allows us to meet those challenges head-on, backed by Environ’s operational and financial strength.”

Notably, RPM brings a proprietary Power Factor Correction solution to Environ’s offerings—an innovative tool that identifies and eliminates hidden utility charges, helping organizations uncover savings and boost operational efficiency.

Environ provides strategic energy solutions to manufacturers, healthcare systems, universities, municipalities, real estate owners, and other energy-intensive organizations. Its services help clients make data-driven energy decisions, manage risk, reduce costs, shrink carbon footprints, and stay compliant with regulatory requirements. This acquisition marks Environ’s eighth in five years, as the company continues its accelerated growth strategy backed by private equity partner 424 Capital.
