

Massive Networks Named an INTERNET TELEPHONY Product of the Year 2025

Evolved carrier Massive Networks' One Pipe Multi-Connect offering is recognized for its innovation, delivering flexible, secure, high-performance connectivity

LOUISVILLE, CO, UNITED STATES, May 7, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Massive Networks, an emerging global leader in mid-market to enterprise-level connectivity solutions, has been honored with a Product of the Year Award for 2025 by INTERNET TELEPHONY magazine, one of the telecommunications industry's most well-known media news sources.

Internet Telephony is produced by TMCnet (Technology Marketing Corporation), a leading global online publisher covering communications and technology. The INTERNET TELEPHONY Product of the Year Awards "highlight the diverse companies driving the industry forward, honoring their contributions to technological advancement and customer success," according to a statement from the publisher.

It's Massive Networks' mission to reinvent connectivity for the networking space, elevating the carrier from its current commoditized role to its more rightful status as a market differentiator.”

Kevin Flake, CEO, Massive Networks

Massive Networks' One Pipe Multi-Connect solution was designed to deliver scalable, optimized, high-performance connectivity that can be customized to meet the needs of individual business customers. It provides what Massive Networks has coined an “Evolved Carrier Experience,” featuring simplified operations, enhanced security, and speeds ranging from 10 Mbps to 400 Gbps of Tier1 data center bandwidth to cover a range of requirements. The service includes offerings like White Glove support, dedicated connectivity experts, and specialized options such as network segmentation or multi-cloud linking to maximize performance and address unique connectivity requirements.
