Understanding the impact that tariffs can have on both project budgets and timelines, we acted early”

Robbie Robinson

By forecasting potential supply chain disruptions, Owner Robbie Robinson doubled inventory in 2024—bringing in a wide array of stone and tile products at pre-tariff rates. This includes exotic quartzite, marble, granite, limestone, and a large selection of engineered quartz and porcelain slabs and tiles from around the globe. With this expansion, Carmel Stone Imports now holds the largest in-stock inventory of natural and engineered stone products in the Bay Area.

A Proactive Response to Market Volatility

Carmel Stone Imports’ preemptive inventory expansion was driven by global market indicators pointing to potential tariffs and cost increases on imported materials. With over 50 containers in transit and additional stock on the ground, customers now benefit from broader selection and better pricing while supplies last.

Products available at pre-tariff pricing include:

- Natural stone slabs: quartzite, granite, marble, limestone
- Engineered quartz and porcelain slabs
- Indoor and outdoor tile solutions for floors, walls, and hardscapes

“Understanding the impact that tariffs can have on both project budgets and timelines, we acted early,” said Robbie Robinson, owner of Carmel Stone Imports. “By securing material ahead of policy changes, we can continue to serve our clients with stability and value during uncertain times.”

Industry & Regional Implications

This announcement comes as builders, designers, and property owners across California face increasing uncertainty due to global trade shifts. Tariffs on imported stone materials could drive up costs by 15–30%, according to industry analysts. With many projects already on tight budgets and schedules, access to pre-tariff inventory offers a rare advantage in today’s construction and renovation landscape.

Carmel Stone Imports’ three Northern California showrooms are strategically located to serve:

- Monterey and Salinas (via Carmel and Sand City)
- San Jose, San Francisco, Oakland, and the East Bay (via Palo Alto)

These facilities offer in-person browsing and professional guidance, with inventory available for immediate delivery.
