As this is the second time Clifton is presenting as keynote speaker, he will provide an update on Zipline's reach and impact since 2018, including how the company completes a commercial delivery every 70 seconds, serving more than 4,000 businesses, organizations and governments.

Also, as part of this year's activities and for the first time in Las Vegas, NFPA will invite attendees to stuff 1,000 teddy bears and comfort kits, which will be donated to local fire departments in support of children impacted by fire and other emergencies. More information about a media event featuring these donations will follow in the weeks ahead.
