This one is about staying the course of the journey, even when it seems like all hope is lost”

SUMiT

In what marks his seventh project overall, 'Find a Way' finds SUMiT reflecting on perseverance, self-acceptance, and inner resilience. "Whereas last year's project was about the motivation to take action and go after something, this one is about staying the course of the journey, even when it seems like all hope is lost," SUMiT shares. "There were mad times over the past year that I had to take inventory of my heart and see what I'm really made of. I've found peace in knowing myself, and knowing I'm accepted by God and those closest to me."

The album delves into SUMiT's relationships, fears, beliefs, and inspirations through introspective lyrics and dynamic production. 'Find a Way' is as much an open letter to his listeners as a self-examination. "It's inviting you into my heart to check it with me now," SUMiT says. "I hope you hear some of yours in it too, and that this music helps you through whatever difficulties you may be facing."

All songs on the album were written and performed by SUMiT, recorded and mixed by Samuel Rosario, and mastered by Fred Miller. The project was executive produced by Danny DiRoberto, with cover art designed by Nic Violets.

SUMiT's personal favorites from the album include "Evil Eye," "Volunteer," and "Comeback Kid."
