Originally crafted through a collaboration among McLean-based Winthrop Custom Builders, Andy Staszak Interiors, and award winning landscape architect Charles Owen of Fine Landscapes, the home artfully blends transitional elements with classic form across three elegantly appointed levels.

The home features the finest curated materials from white oak and limestone flooring, custom millwork, a flagstone loggia, and seamless indoor-outdoor living. The serene saltwater pool, 1085 bottle wine cellar, and fitness room offer the lifestyle a discerning buyer desires in the capital region, while displaying fine touches of luxury throughout.

Mackall Farms is located just up the street from this year's most exclusive and talked about spring event, the McLean Project for the Arts Spring Benefit.
