What is Driving the Market Forward?

The increasing demand for home renovation is set to propel the growth of the garden rooms market. Home renovation, which involves improving, upgrading, or altering an existing home to enhance its functionality, aesthetic appeal, or value, helps to create personalized and functional living spaces. This gives homeowners a sense of satisfaction and control over their environment. By providing a peaceful retreat for work or relaxation while blending seamlessly with outdoor spaces and requiring minimal structural changes, garden rooms contribute significantly to home renovation. A survey conducted by Houzz Study in May 2024 relating to home renovations in 2023 and plans for 2024 showed a surge in renovation expenditure over the past three years, with a median spending increase of 13% to $17,595.68 (£17,000) in 2023. This indicates that the increasing demand for home renovation is driving the garden rooms market.
