Since its inception, HiLight Tactical has illuminated the tactical and personal defense space for over a decade. Headquartered in Durham, North Carolina, the company specializes in high-performance tactical accessories—primarily laser sights and tactical flashlights—and maintains a catalog of approximately 44

HiLight's customer base includes law enforcement agencies, hunters, military professionals, airsoft competitors, and self-defense enthusiasts, all of whom rely on the brand for durability, accuracy, and reliability.

A Transaction Aligned with Speed and Strategy

For HiLight Tactical LLC, the primary objective was twofold: to move the business quickly and to identify a qualified buyer without the need for external financing. Website Closers broker Justin Harris delivered on both fronts, executing a deal with precision and ensuring a seamless transition to new ownership.

"The seller had a very specific vision for this exit—timely, clean, and with a buyer who understood the tactical market," said Justin Harris, broker at Website Closers. "We found that in Clover Acquisition LLC, whose team was fully aligned with the seller's timeline and didn't require any third-party financing. It was a smooth, well-matched transaction that checked every box."
