Founded 23 years ago, Quantix has spent years connecting businesses with top-tier technology talent across sectors like SAP, healthcare, IT support, and finance. With a comprehensive suite of staffing solutions—including contract, contract-to-hire, and permanent placements—the company has built a reputation not only for technical precision but for human-centered hiring strategies.

A Mission-Driven Match

Owners, Michael and Steve Haase were intent on finding a successor who would honor Quantix's culture and continue its commitment to diversity, inclusion, and purpose-driven work. Through Website Closers' targeted approach, Diatonic Healthcare emerged as the ideal acquirer, bringing both business acumen and a shared belief in aligning people with meaningful work.

"This deal wasn't just about the numbers—it was about trust, legacy, and continuing our mission to put people first," said Michael Haase, co-founder of Quantix. "We built Quantix to be more than a staffing firm—it's a community, a connector, and a place where values matter. Eric Pittman understood that and delivered exactly the right buyer we wanted."

Connecting Cultural Alignment with Operational Synergy

Broker Eric Pittman of Website Closers praised the strategic fit between Quantix and Diatonic Healthcare, noting that cultural alignment was just as important as operational synergy.

"From day one, the owners made it clear: this business wasn't just transactional, it was transformational," said Pittman. "Finding a buyer who genuinely respected Quantix's purpose was key. Diatonic Healthcare brings not only a strategic growth mindset but a deep appreciation for the company's people-centric foundation. I am extremely glad and proud to be a part of this transaction."

"Quantix is known for more than just filling roles—they help businesses and professionals thrive," said a representative from Diatonic Healthcare. "We're excited to carry forward the legacy they've built and to elevate the impact of people-focused workforce solutions."

With this acquisition, Quantix expands its footprint in the IT staffing and human capital solutions space, continuing a brand recognized for delivering both exceptional talent and deeply personalized service to its patrons.

Congratulations to all parties on this meaningful and successful transaction!
